Epworth League Meeting.
The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held last night in the church parlors.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: President, Fred A. Galt; first vice president, Lucile Wolf; second vice president, Hattie Henry; third vice president, Katherine Francis; fourth vice president, Birdella Miller; secretary, Howard Koppert; treasurer, Joe Butternore; chorister, Sarah McElfett; and pianist, Sarah Mays.

Ruth Cunningham and Blanche Grawn were elected delegates to attend the annual Epworth League convention at Uniontown, June 5 and 6. One new member was taken into the league.

At the conclusion of the business, the entertainment which was postponed from last Thursday evening, was rendered. This part of the affair was very entertaining, the performers appearing in costume, a bride of 20 years ago, an old Irish woman, another lady of about 25 or 30 years ago, and some children being represented. The "Little Red Hen" was dramatized by "some children."

The missionary money was turned in at this time, the total amount collected being $70.00. Miss Myrtle McDuffett's division turned in over one and one-half times the amount turned in by Katherine Francis' division. When Lucy Sullivan's name was called for her dollar, she explained in rhyme how it happened that she had no dollar to turn in.

At the conclusion of the program, lunch was served. It was intended to play a game of "indoor baseball," but on account of the lateness of the hour this was postponed until some future time.

Planning a Hike.
The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church is planning a hike for Memorial Day. It is proposed to leave the corner of Green and Pittsburgh streets at 10:30 A. FOR A GOOD DIGESTION

A Local Druggist's Suggestion.
It has been said the body is like a machine and digestion and elimination of food are the two great factors to health.

If the digestive organs are weak, the stomach overtaxed, waste matter accumulates in the system—the liver gets sluggish and the blood becomes thin and devalued.

We want to ask every person in this vicinity who is troubled with indigestion or a weak stomach, to reach to try our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol.

We know it will strengthen and tone up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs, create a hearty appetite, and replace worn tissue with strength.

We just heard of a case of a man in Oneonta, N. Y., who suffered from a bad stomach trouble for fifteen years and had become so weak he could hardly walk—who was cured by Vinol.

Try a bottle of Vinol and if it fails to help you we will give back your money. Graham & Company, Druggists, Connellsville. Vinol is sold in the West Side by Fred H. Harmonizing, 1, S. For Rhine, burn the skin try our Sarsa Solva. We guarantee it.

T. R. NOT DECEIVED

Frick and Gary Told Truth About Tennessee Co., Says Witness.
NEW YORK, May 28.—Testimony to try to prove that Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation and T. C. Frick, a director, did not deceive President Roosevelt, when they told him it was necessary for the corporation to take over the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company to stop the panic of 1907 was introduced by the defense in the government suit to dissolve the corporation. The testimony was given by Thomas W. Joyce, a security clerk in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.

According to the government Gary and Frick misrepresented the facts when they told President Roosevelt that the brokerage firm of Moore & Schley had secured the assets of a majority of the stock of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, and that the firm would fail and the panic be accentuated unless the stock was exchanged for bonds of the United States Steel Corporation. It was not true, the complaint stated, that Moore & Schley had an amount of the stock over-approximating a majority.

Today Joyce testified that on Sunday, November 3, 1907, the day before Gary and Frick went to Washington to see the president, he examined Moore & Schley's books at the direction of Mr. Morgan, and found that the firm had 157,799 shares out of the Tennessee company's total outstanding stock of 238,000 shares, of which only 26,000 shares were not tied up in collateral pledged for loans. He said he reported this to Mr. Morgan at the meeting of financiers that night in the Morgan library, and that Mr. Morgan said: "Those figures agree with what I have been told."

Mr. Gary followed Joyce on the stand, but after testifying briefly concerning the organization and growth of the Illinois Steel Company, of which he was a director in the early days of the steel industry, he was excused.

VOTE FOR PROBE

Senate to Investigate Labor Conditions in West Virginia Mines.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—By viva voce vote the Senate adopted the resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation of conditions preceding and accompanying the strike of coal miners in the Paint creek region in West Virginia. The resolution, first introduced in somewhat different form by Senator Kern, has been before the Senate for a month, the subject of many bitter attacks and of scores of speeches of commendation.

The investigation will be the second in the history of the nation, so far as senators have shown in debate, to be made of the acts of a state by a legislative branch of the federal government. The strike in the Coal of Mine mining region in Ohio was investigated by a House committee in 1904.

The education and labor committee will meet probably tomorrow to begin the work of investigation. Its first action will be the naming of a subcommittee to make a personal trip to the coal strike region to examine witnesses.

Senator Borah will be chairman, and Senators Shields, Swanson, Martin and Kinyon will be other members. The subcommittee's report is looked for next month.

BABY IN MISERY WITH SKIN TROUBLE

On Fingers. Water Blisters of Itching Nature. When Scratched Would Spread. Not Able to Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Few Weeks, Trouble Gone.

121 Pennsylvania St., Chester, Pa.—"On her fingers my baby had like water blisters of an itching nature. They seemed like water blisters with white heads. She would scratch her fingers until she would be in misery. It appeared when she scratched them they would seem to spread. Her fingers seemed to burn with fever. Her hands would get red and inflamed and she would weep to hold them in cold water. She was not able to sleep and when she slept at times she would scratch her fingers. She was cross and fretful and would sit up in bed at night and cry and scratch her hands furiously, especially if she got a bit over heated. The child was in a pitiful condition."

"She had been troubled about two months. I washed her with Cuticura Soap and used the Cuticura Ointment on her sores. It seemed to be miraculous the change in her after that use. I did not use the Cuticura Soap but a few weeks until the trouble was gone. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her. This was about two years ago and she has never been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. J. J. McCabe, Apr. 12, 1912.

SOMERSET.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, May 27.—Judge Ruppel yesterday handed down an opinion reversing a $70 judgment awarded for the plaintiff by Justice of the Peace A. Kent Miller of Somerset, in the suit of M. M. Shuck of Lincoln township, against Calvin E. Deal of Meyersdale.

The court has appointed the following viewers to determine the necessity for a bridge over Quemahoning creek, in Lincoln township, on the road leading from the Somerset-Johnstown turnpike, near Spiesville, to Stoyestown, between the residences of William H. Glessner and S. G. Bitter; Attorney John A. Hartman of Windber; Captain William M. Schrock of Somerset; and Peter Hoffman of Paint township.

Judge Ruppel yesterday filed a decree concurring with the May court grand jury and the county commissioners in their recommendations of a new bridge across Quemahoning creek, in Lincoln township, where the public road leading from Glessner's position to Freeman Gonder's farm crosses the stream, near the residence of Samuel Gedlitz. The bridge was recommended by the following viewers: Attorney Rufus E. Meyers of Somerset; Peter Hoffman of Paint township; and Jeremiah J. Roiman of Stoneybrook township. The court has also similarly concurred in the matter of a new bridge over Fuller's Run, in Quemahoning township, where the public highway leading from Hooversville to the bridge road crosses the stream. This bridge was recommended by the following viewers: Attorney Louis C. Colborn of Somerset; Joseph E. Miller of Jefferson township; and Jeremiah J. Roiman of Stoneybrook township.

On petition of citizens of Conemaugh township to vacate and supply parts of a public road leading from Deaneer to Holsinger, the court has appointed the following viewers: Attorney John A. Hartman of Windber; Captain William M. Schrock of Somerset; and Peter Hoffman of Paint township. Attorney Rufus E. Meyers of Somerset; Attorney John A. Hartman of Windber; and Virgil M. Hack of Confluence, viewers appointed by the court to pass upon the petition of the Globe Column & Manufacturing Company of Somerset township, for a private road leading from the Somerset-Johnstown highway, at the Somerset & Cambria railroad crossing, to petitioner's mill, a distance of 600 feet, have reported in favor of the proposed road. A former board of viewers disapproved of the road, and it is probable that exceptions will be filed to the report of the second set of viewers.

On petition of citizens of Elk Lake township to vacate two miles of the Frenchburg road commencing at the 8th and Port Hill highway at the Lount Cabin, ending at the line dividing Elk Lake and Addison townships, also to vacate the Yough road connecting the Frenchburg road and the French highway, the court has appointed the following viewers: Attorney Rufus E. Meyers of Somerset; Joseph E. Miller of Jefferson township; and Jeremiah J. Roiman of Stoneybrook township.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

MOUNT PLEASANT, May 28.—The first evening of the Mount Pleasant High School exercises passed off without a mistake. Of the graduating class there are non-resident pupils, James A. Cowan, Jr., of East Huntingdon township, and Frank McLean and Martha Myers of Mount Pleasant township. The first three scholars to graduate from the commercial department are Harry Cleghorn, Mary Hales and Clifford Mullin. The Remington typewriter is used in the public school here and it these pupils successfully pass the Remington examination to be held in Pittsburgh next week the Remington company will set positions for these students. On the class roll is Orla Mae Anderson, James A. Cowan, Jr., Leroy E. Elcher, Joseph North, Harry St. George, Hart, E. Orville George, Mary Hales, Roseline Kobacker, Blanche Lantz, Ruth M. Lobinger, Frank Hays, Mrs. Dean, Martha Linn Myers, Charles Clifford Mullin, Jay Elwell, Elgin, Verena Viol, M. Schindel, Henry Walter Stewart, Mabel Stouffer, Blanche Irene Whetzel.

The stage was beautifully decorated in the class colors, class emblems, the class flower the black-eyed Susan and ferns and palms. The orchestra followed by the class song which received hearty applause. The president's address on problems was made by Walter Stewart. The class poem was given by Ruth Lobinger. Verena Schindel gave the class history, telling of the helpfulness of Frank McLean how early in his high school course James Cowan had acquired the habit of doing his regularly. This brought them up to the Junior year when some subtle hint of matrimony, leaving one disappointed member in the class—Ola Anderson who did not get to take domestic science. The concert was Joseph Galley, optimism, Leroy Elcher, music, Hilda Kelley oratorio, recitation, "Nathan Hale," Blanche Wetzel, Roseline Kobacker gave her prophecy of the class, making the class actors and actresses and the world they will move in a stage. The first scene was set in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Galley. Mrs. Galley is recognized as Ola Anderson. Ruth Lobinger is visiting her friends, Mrs. Galley. The lights get out of repair. In hunting an electrician they find the 3-in-one guy, Jay Elman—he is also an electrician. Just as Elman leaves they are very much surprised to find Leroy Elcher talking to a lamp post. He is the star newspaper reporter of the world and has been sent out to a woman's suffrage meeting and is interviewing a lamp post. But his troubles vanish as Harry Cleghorn the court stenographer approaches and he relates the days troubles in court. Judge Stewart presides. The first case on the docket is Mary Hales Stenacker versus her husband Mr. Stenacker, the stenographer. In the case Mr. Clifford Mullin and Orville George. Judge Stewart tells Mary to join the Socialists' ranks. And one by one the following cases are dismissed: Blanche Wetzel versus James Miller, breach of promise; Blanche Lantz, suing the Conservatory of Music for six months wages. Next comes Martha Myers, the woman suffragette with the title of P. O. L. E. D. She is arrested by Officer McLean, taken before Judge Stewart and when her sentence is pronounced she faints. Dr. James Cowan is called. He brings Nurse Verena Schindel. As she comes to Mabel Stouffer tries to reason with her that the African missionary life she has led is the only one—and the curtain comes down and the play is ended. The banner oration by Clifford Mullin followed and the presentation to Alex Shedd the Junior president; the farewell song of the 27 Juniors came out and sang their song "Ye Juniors."

BIG FLOOD LOSSES

Are Reflected in April Statement of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Special interest attaches to the financial report of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for the month of April, and the first ten months of the current fiscal year. It is possible by a study of the figures to reach a fair idea of the extent of the initial losses incident to the floods in March and April.

The April report shows $7,587,179 gross earnings, as compared with $7,539,078 April, 1912, a decrease of $48,101. The total operating expenses were $6,016,198, as compared with $5,165,737, an increase of $854,461. The net operating revenue shows a decrease of $968,561, the totals being $1,570,981 and $2,421,441, for April, 1913 and 1912 respectively. For maintenance of way and structure the expenditures were $1,051,371 an increase of $252,053; maintenance of equipment $1,558,754, an increase of $227,657; transportation expenses $2,051,461, an increase of $225,259.

The figures for the first ten months of the fiscal year show a gross revenue of $33,573,242, as compared with $32,626,494 for the corresponding period of 1912-13, an increase of $946,748, despite the heavy decrease in traffic on account of interruption and losses by flood. Previous to the disaster the outlook was for a total traffic of around $102,000,000 for the 12 months. The outlook is now for a total of approximately $100,000,000, a gain of about $2,000,000, instead of the $10,000,000 anticipated.

The total operating expenses for ten months were $60,775,022, an increase of $7,433,495 over the corresponding period of 1912-13, and net operating revenue was $22,800,220, as compared with $22,856,967, an increase of $113,329. During the ten months the company expended $11,260,335 for maintenance of way and structures, an increase of $2,298,752; $15,818,235 on maintenance of equipment, an increase of $1,413,195; and $30,854,799 on transportation expenses, as compared with $27,296,551, an increase of $3,558,248. It is noted that the percentage of maintenance, under the two classifications mentioned approximated 31.75.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON

The Famous Town Post

A Pent-up Utica

"I CALLED at old Dozitt's house a while ago," remarked the lawyer, "and he was busy with a telephone. I thought I'd call on him. I threw a bucket of water over him for lying late and when he regained his faculties he said he couldn't remember when anything did him so much good as the smashing of that telephone. He had been trying to cut it out with a saw all afternoon, and every time a silver voice told him the line was busy."

"And so he howl into a telephone, and acted like a brute beast," said the professor. "A man of his years should be ashamed of himself for lying late and when he regained his faculties he said he couldn't remember when anything did him so much good as the smashing of that telephone. He had been trying to cut it out with a saw all afternoon, and every time a silver voice told him the line was busy."

"There's a man who looks like a brute beast," commented the lawyer, "and I never saw a brute beast building a telephone with an axe. I sympathized with him completely. I knew just how he felt, and how great a relief it was to run amuck. You don't make allowances for human nature, having none of it yourself, professor. We sit around here among your books dreaming pipe dreams, and nothing ever happens to us or to yours. You're not a man, you're a machine."

"If you don't have a trouble, you'd better get one. It's the only thing that keeps you from climbing to my American review. We're not all built that way. Some of us have a lot of the old Adam in us, and when things go wrong we want to do as much damage as possible. But the opportunity for doing damage is mighty small. There are so many laws and lawyers that a man can't kick his own hat without running the risk of being sent to Siberia."

"Why, I know a good, law-abiding citizen who got into trouble for lamping his own cow with a fenceboard. When things went wrong he found great relief in that. The cow didn't mind it in the least, for her hide was made of solid leather, and she was used to it. Yet the malicious neighbors interfered and had him prosecuted, and people even wrote letters to the news about it. Some people laughed at the idea of this excellent citizen running his mind by chastising his cow."

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER.

Many Plants in South and More are Still Building.

There are now about 60 hydro-electric plants in the Southern States and several others are under construction. Some of the developments are very small, but others are large and in some cases furnish power to mills and industrial establishments which in the aggregate would use a considerable quantity of coal if water-generated current were not available.

The greater part of this development is in the states traversed by the Appalachian range, but even there, in some sections as the Piedmont district of the Carolinas, coal is the chief source of power.

Do You Need Assistance

IN THE SELECTION OF YOUR WALL PAPER?

There is a logical sequence governed largely by the existing conditions in your home which if followed will produce correct results. Each room should be treated so as to give it correct form and proportions.

Then there is the question of color and design which must suit the individualities of each room as well as harmonize with the adjoining rooms. Especially is this true of parlors, dining room and reception hall or any group of rooms when considered collectively.

I can render you valuable assistance in the selection of your Wall Papers.

The ISOLATED CONTINENT

A ROMANCE OF THE FUTURE

By GUIDO VON HORVATH and DEAN HOARD

Copyright, 1913, by W. C. C. in the UNITED STATES and GREAT BRITAIN.

The attendant was dismissed and the countess motioned to a chair and asked the messenger to sit down. Instead of complying, the young man took a package from his inside vest pocket and handed it to the countess. He saw the handwriting of the countess. He carefully opened the sealed envelope and sitting down before his desk he began to read.

"Sir: The plans you outlined for my conduct before I went to Heligoland have begun to develop. I will, shortly, know a few very important things in regard to the aerodrome, with one of which you, yourself, have had some experience.

"What do you think of them? What would you think of being able to manufacture them, to fly on them, the red, white and black flag, instead of the stars and stripes?

"You may fill out the papers that make the Countess Rosita the Princess of Schomburg Lithow, and I wish you would have the estates in Germany and other countries transferred to me at once, as I want to take possession, particularly of the estate in Hungary, in the near future.

"Plans should be made to defend my undertaking, plans that will include the manufacture of a fleet of aerodromes. I hardly think the president of the international peace committee will interrupt us, but our greatest strength will lie in being ready for any emergency.

"The time of action is almost here, but it is impossible for me to state the exact date just now. Under no circumstances can I tell the outcome until the papers of possession are in the hands of my legal advisers, Herr Konrad and Hans Schwab of Berlin. Upon their assurance that the title and deeds are in perfect condition, your excellency will hear from me further. With the best personal regards, I am, as ever,

"Your obedient servant,"

"Countess Rosita Rosiny."

The chancellor's feelings, after he had carefully read this letter were a mingling of satisfaction and distrust. He realized that the countess had cleverly taken command, and, notwithstanding her seeming servility, she was the one to dictate and the chancellor the one to obey. He glanced up at the little man who had brought the letter. He was standing stolidly waiting.

"Is there an answer?" he asked in English.

"Will you see the countess personally?" asked the chancellor.

"Who?" he asked stupidly.

"Oh, never mind," answered the chancellor, knowing the man knew nothing whatever about the message.

"Who will come after the answer, if there is one?"

"A bird, sir." The count did not know whether the man was really simple or not. "Where do you live?"

"In America."

"H'm; that is a broad answer. Yes, there will be a message."

Father CHIDWICK, CHAPLAIN OF THE MAINE

taking this liberty but Mr. Morak the prisoner who so kindly pardoned insisted that this letter is important and would not leave the prison until I promised him that I would deliver it personally.

Astra took the letter and thanked him for its safe delivery then dismissed him with a few kind words. Napoleon escorted his mother to her room, then returned to the library, where Astra awaited him. Her (an did, beautiful face was pale and tears glistened in her eyes. Her whole being expressed sorrow.

"What is it dear?" asked her husband sympathetically. Instead of replying she handed him a letter. He recognized the fine handwriting of the Countess Rosita. It read:

"My dear Friends and Protectors: I am writing this to you both as I know you will be married when you receive it. I know you will receive all kinds of presents, surprises and congratulations, as you are both the loved of your followers. But in order to give more value to the kind wishes I have decided to tell you the truth, the unvarnished, cruel truth.

I wonder if it will surprise you to find that I am, and have been in the service of Count von Werdestein. You have been the kindest of hosts, indeed so good that you made my task really deplorable but much easier.

"Don't take this very seriously. Life is made up of an equal portion of bad and good, and the end is always the same. Death gathers us all in and puts in our places others who will find pleasure in destroying all that we have created. You both dream of world peace—I wish I could create peace in my own heart!

"I admire you both, especially Napoleon, and for that reason, I hate you both, being unable to love you, as there are no middle streams in my nature.

"There is no use of my telling you what I intend to do, you will know it soon enough, and you both will be sorry that you ever met the unhappy person whose name was, once, Rosita Rosiny.

"And now, I wish you all happiness, until we meet again."

ROSITA, Princess of Schomburg Lithow. Napoleon quietly folded the letter and handed it back to Astra. He did not seem disturbed at all. He picked up the envelope and saw the New York postmark.

"It is clear, the countess has the secret of cyrnyth and, very likely, of the aerodromes."

"But how did she get it?" "That remains to be seen. Werdestein evidently thinks that everything is fair in love or war."

"Will you read me that other letter, the one the judge brought?" asked Astra.

"Of course, dear. This is Morak's communication. I wonder what he has to say."

He opened the heavy envelope and a number of sheets fell to the table.

"To the President of the United Republics of America."

"Since that unhappy event, in which I was selected by fate as the instrument of Death, I have had many hours to think clearly and to learn from my loner self that it is the rule of Love, and not the rule of Force that should rule the world. I have set down the following facts so that your ladyship shall know all the motive powers that may govern human actions.

The fact that my bullet went astray is due not so much to the quickness of the great humanitarian and American patriot, Napoleon Edison as to the fact that I held the Countess Rosiny in your company. A moment of hesitation is enough to frustrate plans. Her influence, naturally, unintentionally saved your life, as my hand and eye were always true. I am happy that things turned out as they did.

"Before I explain why the countess' presence saved you (she has done, however favorably, at least one good act in her life), I want to tell you that my name is not Morak and I am not a Russian.

My name is Aetzel von Rothenberg, and some years ago I wore the uniform of the famous Red Hussars. Years ago, when on a vacation trip, I traveled through Italy; at that time I could enjoy the great marvels of Nature. I was young and noble-thinking—and free. On the shore of the Lago di Maggiore I found destruction.

I was tramping through the country with a sketching outfit and let people think me an artist. In a secluded and beautiful spot, from where I had an uninterrupted view of the snow-covered peaks of the Alps, and a wide vista of surroundings pine-covered land, I struck my easel and began work. A girl emerged from the only path and walked toward me. I saw a girl, but I ought to say a vision. She was the most bewitching creature I had ever seen.

"She came to me fearlessly and greeted me in a friendly way; I sketched her in my picture. Inside of an hour my fate was sealed, as I had fallen in love with her.

"One day near the end of my vacation I received an invitation to visit the castle of the Rosinys. There I found her. She was married and had a beautiful little girl about three years old. She told me that she loved me that her husband was cruel to her, and I believed everything. We eloped—and she made me a traitor inside of a few weeks. I was entrusted with important secrets and I entrusted them to her. I loved her so!

Both the Count Rosiny and the countess were members of the German secret service. They needed means to keep up their title and did not hesitate to become spies. Besides, she said it was her greatest pleasure to participate in intrigue and the excitement of this profession.

"A few years later, a complete moral wreck I broke away from her, and went to Russia. There I became a tool of that infamous, greivous society that works in the dark against all that is good. It was my fate to be selected to do the ugliest crime of my life. I thank God I was prevented from succeeding.

"I am trying to right the wrong I intended to do you. I know my punishment can only be death. I expect it. I long for it and these, my last words are sacred.

"I have not seen her for years and her unexpected appearance on the scene diverted my mind—for a moment I wanted to kill her."

"This is my story, your ladyship, and since I have breathed American air, even though it came through prison windows I begin to understand the greatness of the ideals you are serving, and I beg you not to condemn me in your thoughts. The knowledge that your noble mind pardons the unhappy tool of a wrong idea, will ease my last hour."

"AETZEL VON ROTHENBERG."

There the long letter ended, but another sheet was waiting to be read. "Your ladyship—My former communication was written before I received the news that I am pardoned."

"Life is precious, and while I was ready to give it up I accept your kind act that was inspired by the goodness of your heart, jubly and you gave me life and liberty and will you now accept my true and faithful services so long as I live?"

"If I could tell you how I feel toward your ladyship, you would not hesitate to rely upon me."

"God shall give all his blessings upon you and yours."

"I will be at the Columbian Hotel awaiting your decision."

"Your grateful servant."

"AETZEL VON ROTHENBERG."

Napoleon placed the long message on the desk and looked thoughtfully at Astra, then without a word, turned to the electro typograph.

A few minutes later he was talking to his master mechanic old Jerome Whistler on the island of Cyrnye.

"Hello Whistler?"

"Hello Mr. Edison! What can I do for you?"

"How is everything at Cyrnye?"

"All well."

"The aerodromes all in?"

"Yes, sir, except the Eagle, that is your private machine."

"Have you seen the Countess Rosiny today?"

"She left with Mr. Duprel, day before yesterday on the Hawk."

"But Santos brought the machine back?"

"Not he, but young Sullivan, who went with them."

the flight and to start the wings. On account of the extreme simplicity of the mechanism and the tremendous strength of cyrnyth the aerodrome is practically speaking, indestructible.

"But how can one machine capture the other, or even fight the other, under these conditions?" asked the count anxiously.

"There are two ways in which a machine may gain victory over the other. One is to disable the brain of the machine, that is, the man behind the wheel."

"How can that be done?" asked the count eagerly.

"Cyrnyth, as you know, is harder than anything except the diamond, so I believe if hard steel bullets were made with diamond points they would penetrate the comparatively thin shell of cyrnyth that defends the airman. However, this is only a theory. Experiments must show the advisability of their manufacture."

"What is the other way?"

"That is a certain method, and is based on the laws of electricity that seem to govern aerial navigation."

"What is it?" asked the count, impatiently, as Santos hesitated and looked at Rosita.

BABY'S TOE A CRIME INDEX.

So a French Countess Tells an Incredible World.

The Countess de la Rochefoucauld of Paris has just given to the world the result of her researches into a remarkable and an entirely new science, which she says she has discovered. She can tell, she says, from an inspection of its toes whether a child now in the cradle is going to kill its father when it grows up.

The idea was first suggested to her by the story of Oedipus, famous paricide, who bore on his foot the stigma of the infamies which he was to accomplish. That made the countess think very hard indeed, and ever since she has been busily engaged in inspecting the toes of paricides with a view of discovering if a definite type exists.

The result of her work is embodied in the momentous announcement which she made a few days ago, "He who is going to kill his father has a shorter big toe than most other people."

A THOROUGH TEST.

One to Convince the Most Skeptical Connellsville Reader.

The test of time is the test that counts. Dr. J. A. Comp 710 Pittsburg St. Scottsdale, Pa. 4335. I was troubled by kidney complaint and backache for years and as time passed, I became worse. Although I had but little faith in advertised remedies, I finally used Dr. J. A. Comp's Kidney Pills. The first dose gave me relief and from that time on I steadily improved until I was better in every way. I have no need of a kidney remedy since Dr. J. A. Comp's Kidney Pills hold good. SPECIAL SALE of RUGS

TO DAY in Connellsville at Wright Metzler's

Closed Friday--Decoration Day

DECORATION DAY

regarded apart from the sentiment associated with it, is hailed by workers in stores, offices, factories and other places of business as a

the first one of the year for many of us.

The majority of people visit other scenes when a holiday is declared, and when making ready to flit, they discover that numerous small articles, necessary to their comfort and appearance, are conspicuously absent.

In the past, previous to holidays, this store has planned to have stocks fine and full and READY to supply any need—shoe-strings to a going-away suit; a bow of ribbon to a correct head-dress; a silver mesh bag to a ward-robe trunk; hosiery, neckwear, jewelry trinkets, foot-wear—anything and everything.

From today until Thursday closing-time, we'll be very busy outfitting people for a holiday that will extend over Sunday for some. Better delve into your possessions now and discover the needed things—and make selection AT ONCE.
